Lynda Barry and Dan Chaon share writing exercises from Workbook 52 to help you create a sustainable writing practice.

Lynda Barry and Dan Chaon have been teaching together for the last five years. Together they have developed a set of writing exercises that are part of their forthcoming book, Workbook 52.

This workshop is about a way of creating a sustainable writing practice for anyone, at any level, who may be interested in writing but is having a hard time figuring out how to start or continue a story. It's based on using a common but extraordinary sort of memory—the kind that instantly “floods” us, like when a smell or a song triggers a vivid image of a certain place in time.
